What is a Cookie?

“A cookie is a piece of information in the form of a very small text file that is placed on an internet user's hard drive. It is generated by a web page server, which is basically the computer that operates a web site. The information the cookie contains is set by the server and it can be used by that server whenever the user visits the site. A cookie can be thought of as an internet user's identification card, which tell a web site when the user has returned” (About Cookies.Org, 2018, www.aboutcookies.org/cookie-faq/).

Cookies generally improve the user's experience on a website and do not harm your device. This cookie policy will provide information on what cookies will and may be set when visiting this website and how to enable, control or delete them.

Reasons for Use of Cookies on this Website

- To offer a good experience for visitors to the site.
- To monitor and analyse the functioning, process and usefulness of the website.
- To confirm the site is secure and safe for visitors to use.

Cookies on this website are divided into two types: First-party Cookies – Cookies placed by Vista x Wix and Third-party Cookies – Cookies placed and utilised by third-party organisations that are Vista x Wix's partners. When using this website, there are links to other companies such as 'About Cookies.Org', links to Marble White's Counselling pages on social media and other directories. These are provided to offer further information to enhance the user's knowledge. Access to additional sites/companies gives the user alternatives to support, other than Marble White Counselling, so an informed choice can be made in regards to sourcing help and guidance. When accessing these, you may be sent cookies by these organisations.

Please note Angela Hughes of Marble White Counselling has no access or control over cookies used by these companies or third-party websites and is not responsible for any of the content of these external organisations in this cookie policy and on this website. Please check the third-party websites for further information about their cookies and how to manage them.

Duration

Cookies could have different durations. This is dependent upon their function. There are session and persistent cookies. Session cookies only remain for the time you are online. The browser erases these when you shut the browser. Persistent cookies remain on your device once the browser has been closed and continue for the duration of time stipulated in the cookie.
